

This Week

Greg Apodaca, CEO & Vision Holder, Community 2.0 Program Host: Roger Fennell

Greg Apodaca enjoys pursuing continuous growth and transformation toward reaching his full potential to serve humanity. He seeks ways to live a thriving life, better coordinate people and resources to serve our community, and live life using sustainable practices to ensure the future of our planet. He invites friends and associates to join him on this path, and he create opportunities to make it fun and beneficial to do so.

Apodaca has 23 years of experience designing and delivering leadership and community development programs. He uses experiential exercises – including physical challenge courses – to help individuals and teams identify and develop more of their potential.

He also works on the scale of an entire community to shift the culture over the long term. The Sustainable Learning Community model he developed acts as a central nervous system for a community so it can match assets to needs effectively. The structure of his company, Mountain-Top Strategies, enables an upward spiral

Dialing In

By Steve Kerekes,
President

In Honor of President Steve

A Rhyme recited by Craig Cox at the Demotion Party

Listen, my friends, and you will hear
About President Steve's Rotary Year

"How bad could it be? I don't think it'll wreck us."
So the club made the offer to Mr. Kerekes.

Being raised by a New Jersey mother Democratic
Kept this administration from being too autocratic.

Each meeting begun with some stretched analogy
In spite of groans, laughter, and never an apology.

A need for repair of his varicose veins
Required Past President Charlie to briefly retake the reins.

Some small complications, he said, "What the heck" to me
"It could have been worse - like that gull-dern vasectomy."

Maybe it was the lack of practice, or something else benign
That made it impossible for him to end the meetings on time.

"We need more 'bored' in our Board Meetings" he'd say with a smile
While always demonstrating his own sense style.

Who else could pull off that look of permanent "un-press"?
That casual - non pretentious - New Jersey-like dress.

Loafers, shorts, and white compression socks
Leave long-lasting fashion-killing tectonic shocks.

So to you, Steve, an icon, like your namesake (the martyr)
We present you with the Royal Order of the Rotarian Garter.

of success, so, as an individual grows stronger, the community does too; and, as the community becomes stronger it has more opportunities for individuals to plug-into growth opportunities. This model can also apply to a corporation or any organization.

Apodaca's purpose is to reach his full potential as an individual and to support others to do so as well.
